1. INTRODUCTION

Purpose of the document

This document introduces the data collected as part of the Prindex initiative. It gives users the basic information they need to carry out their own analysis using the Prindex data. Further information on the Prindex methodology, including the questionnaires and details on property documentation, and answers to frequently asked questions is available from the Prindex website – www.prindex.net.

Structure of the document

The first part of the document contains a description of the Prindex data. The next section contains details on key variables which are computed (recoded) from the raw data. The third section has information on sampling weights and stratification. The annexes contain the list of surveyed countries, details of areas or populations which were excluded from the sampling frame and the Prindex codebook for all variables.

2. THE PRINDEX DATA

In this section, we describe the key aspects of the Prindex data collection methodology and how this affects the contents and structure of the datasets. There are more details on the Prindex methodology on the Prindex website – www.prindex.net.

The Prindex data is collected through interviews with randomly selected individuals over the age of 18 from each country. Therefore, each observation in the datasets represents the responses for one individual. This is different to some surveys on property rights which interview the head of each household and report findings at household or property level. The Prindex approach means the data are nationally representative for the population over 18 years of age in each country.

Interviews are conducted either in person or by telephone. Different sampling approaches are used to select individuals depending on the survey method and availability of data to construct the sampling frame. However, the sampling approaches all aim to provide a dataset that is nationally representative for the population over the age of 18 years. Typically, circa 1,000 individuals were surveyed in each country. This was increased in some countries with larger populations. In section 4, there is further information on the variables that need to be used in analysis of the Prindex data to account for the sampling approaches, including sampling weights.

The current Prindex data was collected in three waves (rounds) of data collection. The first two waves were conducted in 2018. Hereafter, this is called the wave 1 & 2 data. The third wave of data collection was carried out in 2019 as part of the Gallup World Poll. Hereafter, this is called the GWP data. The wave 1 & 2 data is from 33 countries and the GWP data covers 107 countries. Annex 1 has the list of countries, the wave in which the data were collected and the number of completed observations.

The datasets from the wave 1 & 2 and GWP data collection can be downloaded from the Prindex website. Separate datasets for each country are available from the individual country summary pages (for example data on Mexico is available from www.prindex.net/data/mexico), and all datasets are available from www.prindex.net/data. All the datasets are currently available in .csv format. Two earlier rounds of pilot surveys were also carried out. This data is not contained in the main Prindex datasets and so is not covered by this guide. For information on piloting, see the reports on the nine country pilot and three country pilot.

Different questionnaires were used for the wave 1 & 2 and the GWP data collection. These can be downloaded from www.prindex.net. The same questionnaire was used for all the wave 1 & 2 surveys, including in the UK where the survey was conducted via telephone rather than in person. Two slightly different questionnaires were used in the GWP survey, one for in person surveys and the other for surveys conducted by telephone.

The structure of the datasets reflects the different rounds of data collection. The first variables in the datasets are computed variables recoded from responses to both wave 1 & 2 and GWP surveys. These are described in more detail in Section 3 of this report. The next set of variables are from the wave 1 & 2 data collection. Typically, these are prefixed with Q followed by a number. This relates to the number of the question in the questionnaire. The final set of variables are from the GWP wave of data collection. These are typically prefixed WP followed by a number. Again, this relates to the number of the question from the questionnaire. When variable names have two different 'WP' numbers (e.g. WP20656_WP20791), the first number relates to the face-to-face survey and the second to the survey conducted by telephone.

The Prindex codebook (see annex 2) contains details of all variables. To ensure respondent confidentiality, some data collected in both the wave 1 & 2 and GWP surveys are not made publicly available. Publicly available variables are recorded as 'public' in the codebook and those recorded as 'restricted' are not publicly available.

The Prindex data uses the Creative Commons Licence CC BY-NC 4.0 – full attribution, no commercial gain. Users are encouraged to reproduce and adapt material from Prindex data for their own use, as long as they are not being sold commercially.

3. COMPUTED (RECODED) VARIABLES

To facilitate use of the Prindex data, we have created a number of variables that combine the responses from wave 1 & 2 and GWP waves of data collection. These are described in this section of the report. Further details are provided in the Prindex codebook, Annex 2. We recommend that these variables are used where possible as they are consistent across all waves of data collection and will be used for the majority of results published by Prindex in the future.

Prindex unique id (variable name: prindex_unique_id)

This is a unique ID for all observations from both wave 1 & 2 and GWP. The other ID variables, for example wpid from the GWP dataset, are specific to one of the waves of data collection.

Country (variable name: country)

This is the country in which the survey was undertaken. The country names are based on the latest English short names from ISO 3166. In some cases, the names have been shortened by removing portions that are in parenthesis in the ISO 3166 name. Commonly used country names have been adopted when there isn't an official ISO 3166 name, for example Northern Cyprus.

The coding for this variable follows the coding used by Gallup in the World Poll. It is not the ISO 3160 numeric code. This, along with the relevant two- and three-digit alphabetical codes, are contained in variables ISO_Numeric, ISO_Alpha_2_code and ISO_Alpha_3_code.

The other country name variables that are specific to the different waves of data collection (Q3 and WP5) do not necessarily match the computed country variable. Variable Q3 is retained as this was the country identifier used in previous releases of Prindex data. WP5 is retained as this is the naming typically used by Gallup in the Gallup World Poll.

Location (variable name: location)

This variable designates whether the observation was taken in an urban or rural area. It is based on variable Q6 from wave 1 & 2 and WP14 from GWP. The table below illustrates how the relevant responses were combined. As the definition of urban and rural can vary between countries, care should be taken when comparing responses in urban or rural areas based on this variable across different countries.

Table 1 – Coding for the location variable

location	Q6	WP14
Urban	Urban Peri-Urban	A small town or village A large city A suburb of a large city
Rural	Rural	A rural area or on a farm
(Don't know / Other)	(Don't know)	(DK)
(Refused)	-	(Refused)

Gender (variable name: gender)

This is the respondent's gender. It is based on variable Q21_Gender from wave 1 & 2 and WP1219 from GWP. The coding is the same.

Age (variable name: age)

This is the respondent's self-reported age. It is based on variable Q21_Age from wave 1 & 2 and WP1220 from GWP. Numbers 1-98 are the respondents age. Code 99 is used for respondents who report being 99 years or older. Code 100 is used for respondents who refused to answer the question.

Marital status (variable name: marital_status)

This is the self-reported marital status of the respondent. It is based on variable Q25 from wave 1 & 2 and WP1223 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 2 – Coding for the marital status variable

Employment status (variable name: employment_status)

This is the respondent's self-reported employment status. It is based on variables Q27_1 to Q27_11 from wave 1 & 2 and EMP_2010 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 3 – Coding for the employment status variable

Education (variable name: education)

This is the respondent's self-reported highest level of education. It is based on variable Q26 from wave 1 & 2 and WP3117 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 4 – Coding for the education variable

Household size (variable name: HHsize_recode)

This is the total number of people living in the household (adults and children). It is based on variables Q18 and Q19 from wave 1 & 2 and HHsize from GWP. Numbers from 1 to 4 are the number of people in the household. Number 5 stands for 5 or more residents.

Income quintile (variable name: inc_quint)

This is the income quintile in which the respondent's household is positioned in each country (not all countries). It is based on variables Q82 and Q83 from wave 1 & 2 and INCOME_5_PRINDEX from GWP. The income data is collected to allow comparisons between income groups within the dataset. It should not be used to estimate average household income outside of the dataset (e.g. at national level).

Income adequacy (variable name: income_adequacy) – NB this variable is not publicly available

This is the self-reported income adequacy for the household. It is based on variable Q31 from wave 1 & 2 and WP2319 from GWP.

Tenure classification (variable name: tenure_class)

This is the respondent's self-reported tenure classification (status) for their main property (home). Typically, it is based on variable Q42_final from wave 1 & 2 and WP20666_WP20801 from GWP. The 'Family member owns' tenure classification was not directly included in the wave 1 & 2 survey. Hence the tenure_class variable was computed from a combination of Q37 and Q37_other from the wave 1 & 2 data. The variable is based on Q42A for Malawi. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 5 – Coding for the tenure classification variable

Main property (Home) has land attached (variable name: land_attached)

This variable records if the respondent's main property (home) has land attached solely for the household's use. It is based on variable Q36 from wave 1 & 2 and WP20790 and WP20702 from GWP. 'No land attached' would be, for example, an apartment in an urban area. 'Land attached' would be, for example, a single-family home with a garden or agricultural land that is directly attached to the main property.

Other property (variable name: other_property)

This variable records if any household member has property other than the main property (home). It is based on variable Q62 from wave 1 & 2 and WP20688_WP20821 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 6 – Coding for the other property variable

Tenure security for main property (home) (variable name: mainprop_security)

This is a measure of the respondent's perceived tenure security for their main property (home). It is based on variable Q46 for wave 1 & 2 and WP20667_WP20802 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for other property (variable name: otherprop_security)

This is a measure of the respondent's perceived tenure security for other property to which they have rights. It is based on variable Q67 for wave 1 & 2 and WP20688_WP20821 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for additional property (variable name: addprop_security)

This is a measure of the respondent's perceived tenure security for any additional property to which they have rights. It is based on variable Q74 for wave 1 & 2. The relevant questions were not asked in the GWP wave. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for all properties (variable name: allprop_security)

This variable is the combination of the measures of the respondents perceived tenure security for all properties to which they have rights. It is based on variables mainprop_security, otherprop_security and addprop_security. This is the primary variable that we use to report levels of tenure security in Prindex documentation. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Reasons for insecurity (variable names: reason_1 to _7)

These variables record responses to the questions about the reasons a respondent feels insecure about their tenure for their main property (home). The wave 1 & 2 survey contains questions on 12 reasons. The GWP survey contains questions on eight reasons. The table below shows how these have been combined into variables reason_1 to _7. Some questions were not asked in certain countries as it was considered unsafe for the respondent to answer or not applicable. The notes section of the Prindex codebook contains the details of this.

Not included	Q49_5, Q49_9, Q49_10, Q49_11 and Q49_12	-

Response to divorce scenario (variable name: divorce)

This is the responses to the question on perceived tenure security in the hypothetical situation of divorce. It is based on variable Q50 for wave 1 & 2 and WP20685_WP20819 for GWP. These questions were only asked to respondents who reported being married. The same response options are used in the computed variable and the variables from wave 1 & 2 and GWP.

Response to spousal death (variable name: spousal_death)

This is the responses to the question on perceived tenure security in the hypothetical situation of spousal death. It is based on variable Q51 for wave 1 & 2 and WP20687_WP20820 for GWP. These questions were only asked to respondents who reported being married. The same response options are used in the computed variable and the variables from wave 1 & 2 and GWP. The questions were not asked in some countries as it was deemed culturally inappropriate. The notes section of the Prindex codebook contains the details.

Property documentation

All respondents were asked questions about the property documentation that they or a family member possess. The data were collected slightly differently in the wave 1 & 2 survey than in the GWP survey,

In wave 1 & 2, all respondents were asked to name all the property documentation they or a family member possess which relates to their main property (home) – question Q54. Their responses were recorded against a predefined list of property documents. Respondents who own or rent their main property (home) were also asked if they possessed certain types of documentation from the predefined list if they had not already mentioned them – question Q55. Respondents who reported having rights to other properties were asked if they or a family member possessed documentation for this property from a similar predefined list. The list of documentation varied between countries and whether the respondent owned or rented their property. Each document has been classified as formal or informal based on whether they could typically be used as evidence of rights in a court. Documents mentioned that were not on the lists were recorded in free text variables Q54_other, Q55_other and Q69_other.

These have been recoded as one of three options in variables Q54_other_recode, Q55_other_recode and Q69_other_recode: 'Not a document, unclear, don't know or refused', 'Other informal' or 'Other formal'.

In the GWP wave, all respondents were asked if they or a family member possessed certain types of documentation from a predefined list for their main property and other properties – questions WP20668_WP20803 to WP20675_WP20810 and WP20686_WP20824 to WP20697_WP20831. As in wave 1 & 2, the list of documentation varied between countries and whether the respondent owned or rented their property. They have also been classified as formal or informal.

The names of documentation used in each country and whether they have been classified as formal or informal are available on the Prindex website, www.prindex.net.

The following table contains summaries of how the individual variables have been recoded into aggregated variables.

Respondent name on documentation for main property (variable name: main_prop_name_doc)

This variable records if the respondent's name is on any of the property documentation they have reported to possess for their main property (home). It is based on the Q56 variables for wave 1 & 2 and WP20676_WP20832 for GWP. To align the methodologies from wave 1 & 2 and GWP only responses from respondents who own or rent their main property are included.

4. SAMPLING WEIGHTS AND STRATIFICATION

Both the Wave 1 & 2 and GWP wave of data collection used stratified multi-stage random sampling to select the respondents within each country. The methodology section of the Prindex website has details of this. The implications of this sampling approach must be taken into account in analysis to correctly calculate the magnitude of statistics and their standard error. A weight variable (PRINDEX_WT), strata variable (strata_all) and primary sampling unit (PSU) variable (PSU_all) are included in datasets for this purpose.

The weight variable corrects for the unequal probability of selection of the individual respondents at country level (design weight). It has been adjusted, using post-stratification, so that rates of response for key groups (typically gender, age, and, where reliable data are available, education or socioeconomic status) are more closely aligned with the prevalence of these groups at national level.

The weight variable must be adjusted when calculating statistics for groups of countries to account for the different probabilities of selection for individuals in each country.
